Abstract:

English communication has changed the way of thinking; there are different people all over the world with different cultures and languages. English plays a pivotal and charismatic role in communication. It is a skill which induces systematic and continuous process of understanding and speaking with flexibility. Most people are born with the physical ability to talk, but we must learn to speak well and communicate effectively. The big World has become a box of words in which the complete world can be under a tree called English. The third generation people have an illustrious reputation, respect, decorum and dignity for it.

To learn speaking, listening, reading, writing and our ability to understand verbal and nonverbal cues are the skills by observing other people and modeling our behavior on what we see and perceived. We are also taught some communication skills directly through education. By bringing those skills into practice and getting them evaluated. The face of modern India is changed drastically due to globalization it has brought to India different cultures. In today's world of competition no organizations want to remain local their aim is to expand all over the world.

Introduction

English communication fillips a better education and outsourcing opportunities. It winds the world into a single string. English has a status of a second language in almost all the countries where it is not the first language. To acquire simple language for day to day communication is main aim of learning any language. In turn, today's workforce is expected to be highly competent to continually improve skills and engage in lifelong learning. Language is a skill, like any other skill until and unless we practice the caliber skill it is highly impossible. The objective of learning a language is virtually linked with the LSRW skills that are to be galvanized. As a global process communication influence the activities of the human community at large. Social development is a prominent feature of effective techniques of communication, which is necessary for sustaining the growth and development. The need for learning a language arises from the point of view of its adaptability, productivity, utility, universality and teaches ability. Communication is a sharing of feelings, ideas and opinions with others. This can be intellectual, personnel spoken or written in nature. We live in groups and man is invariably a social animal. As the social needs insist, we share our thoughts with others. The two-way processes of communication motivates, inform, suggests, warns, orders, changing behavior and establiity better relationships to make interaction meaningful and make oneself understood. Communication becomes effective when a communicator is effective enough to communicate competently, simply, lucidly sincerely and dynamically. Communication is essential for close sympathetic relationships in a society and for transformation of men, material and thoughts from one place to another. This process involves initiation reception and response that serve as feedback. Hence, communication is interactive by nature.

Conclusion

Today the compulsions of learning English are no longer merely political but scientific and technological. And no longer is English language of Great Britain only; it is the language required by the world for greater understanding; it is the most international of languages. English has become a global language a connecting link, a language of modern science and technologies, a language of latest sciences, like information technology and space science, a language of all competitive examinations-be they the state level, national level or international level. Whether we realize it or not we are now living in the world of information and communication technology. In this digital age, computers can be seen populating everywhere. Eighty percent of computer data are processed and stored in English. Scientists have found out that five thousand newspapers more than half of the news papers published in the world are published in English
